

Mickey Cookie Jar

GIFT/ORNAMENT

#DisneyCreators at Home

Instructions:

STEP 1

First you want to make the strips to make Mickey's signature shorts around the jar of your red stock paper. Use a ruler to measure it and draw a faint line. You want your strips to be 2 inches tall and 6 inches across. Cut your strips, now take your strip and place it around the jar. Hot glue the strip at each end together.

STEP 2

For the buttons you can use the printout guide. Trace the guide on the white stock paper for the buttons. Glue the buttons onto the red strip in the center about $\frac{1}{2}$ an inch apart.

STEP 3

For the Mickey ears, you can print out the guide on stock paper or use a printout to trace around your black stock paper. After cutting your ears you want to slightly cut the bottom of your ear to slide on the side of the mason jar lid after adding the glue to it.

Things You Will Need:

- Red, black and white stock paper
- Glue gun
- Scissors
- Pencil
- Ruler
- Hole puncher (Optional)
- Mason Jars

*If you're making Minnie you will need ribbon to make bows.

Note: As a reminder while creating this craft, please supervise children who are helping or nearby.

Maggie Tompkins • Jet Plane Mommy

About Me:

Hi everyone! I am Maggie Tompkins from Jet Plane Mommy (@jetplanemommy).

I am a flight attendant, and mommy to Madison and Maya. I began to blog after becoming a first-time mom. I wanted to share my experiences as a working mom in aviation and give women the encouragement to keep doing what you love and balancing parenthood along the way.

When I am not flying you will find me in the kitchen baking cookies with my girls. We love Disney and all of the magic it brings into our day to day basis. During the holidays we love baking and gifting our loved ones with yummy treats. This holiday season I thought that these mason jar ornaments made the cutest gifting idea and I love how versatile it is.

Instructions (cont.):

STEP 4

For the Minnie option, you can purchase small already made bows or make your own with ribbon. I used a wired ribbon which helped shaped that perfect Minnie bow. Make sure to glue the bows onto the ears with hot glue.

STEP 5

And now just fill the jars with your favorite treats! You can do candy, cookies, a mixture of hot cocoa, brownie mix, etc. The possibilities are endless with these cute jars.

STEP 6

This is completely optional. My lids came with a small hole in them so I could turn them into ornaments by simply adding a cute string to them. If your lids don't have a hole in them, you can make one by taking a drill and making a small hole in it. Take some twine, make a nice know on it and pass it through the hole to turn your jar into an ornament. Super cute and simple to make!
